

GRANDEUR IN A GREAT LOCATION

Ashland's Main Street Inn welcomes guests to 19th-century Victorian elegance, with crystal chandeliers, a grand staircase, hardwood floors, and high ceilings. Modern conveniences make the inn perfect for vacations, celebrations, reunions, and family gatherings.

Benjamin Franklin Myer, a surveyor, and his wife, Dorothy, built this house for their pioneer family in 1883. The magnificent building, with its prime location in Ashland, has been a gathering place for families and visitors ever since.

Ashland's Main Street Inn opened as a bed and breakfast in 1979. A quarter-century later, it became travelers accommodations with two large, comfortable suites.

circa 1900

The inn offers a haven for Southern Oregon visitors, whether they intend to spend time leisurely or actively.

The Plaza and downtown Ashland are two blocks away, with restaurants to please every palate, shops to satisfy needs and desires, and art galleries to enjoy.

Just steps farther are the theaters of the renowned Oregon Shakespeare Festival and the many recreational opportunities at Lithia Park.

Mount Ashland, historic Jacksonville, the Britt Festivals, and Southern Oregon's acclaimed wineries and producers of gastronomic delights are within a short drive.

Outdoor

enthusiasts have many options in Ashland and around the region.

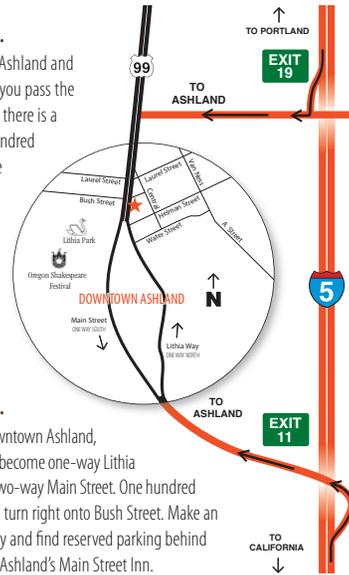

Crater Lake National Park, the Oregon Caves, and the coast are a few of the easy day trips.

DRIVING DIRECTIONS

Traveling south on Interstate 5, take Exit 19.

Follow signs about two miles to Ashland and the Shakespeare Festival. Just as you pass the brick Briscoe School on the right, there is a stoplight at Laurel Street. One hundred feet past the stoplight, after a fire hydrant and a streetlight, turn left onto Bush Street. Make an immediate right turn into the alley and find reserved parking behind the second building on the right, Ashland's Main Street Inn.

Traveling north on Interstate 5, take Exit 11.

Follow Siskiyou Boulevard into downtown Ashland, about five miles. Siskiyou will first become one-way Lithia Way and then, at Helman Street, two-way Main Street. One hundred feet past the stoplight at Helman, turn right onto Bush Street. Make an immediate right turn into the alley and find reserved parking behind the second building on the right, Ashland's Main Street Inn.
